WOODPECKER FINDS TREETOP LUNCH IN SNOW

An Addition To the Snow: Freezing Rain

KINGSTON

Ulster County school students got a holiday on ice today but there was nothing entertaining for the traveler faced with the third straight day of winter storm.

Freezing rain and sleet topped the up to 12 inch snow accumulation in the county making driving even more hazardous than it has been since Wednesday morning. The mixed precipitation is expected to continue throughout the day before changing over to flurries and colder temperatures tonight. Saturday's outlook is for continued cold and a few more flurries.

Forewarned of the ice storm, city and county offices and numerous businesses closed early Thursday afternoon. Although the storm did not arrive until early today, city Board of Public Works crews had an opportunity to clear snow from business districts overnight and carry out sanding operations in preparation for the current mess.

According to the city engineer's office, nearly a foot of snow has accumulated in Kingston since Wednesday topped with today's freezing rain crust.

A foot of new snow has fallen at Belleayre Ski Center since the start of the storm. Although there was some crust from freezing rain earlier today, it is expected that the temperature turnaround will save snow conditions for the weekend skier. Nelson Sears, official at the state operated center, said that the snow maintenance will be started as soon as the storm abates.

Nixon Asks Global Energy Solution

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger have warned oil-producing and oil-consuming nations that unless they get together on the energy crisis world prosperity and stability will be seriously threatened.

They pressed their appeals Thursday for a global solution instead of an every-man-for-himself scramble.

Nixon, from the Western White House in California, released the text of letters to eight major oil consuming countries inviting them to a Feb. 11 foreign ministers energy meeting in Washington.

His message went to the governments of Canada, Japan, West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway and Britain.

In Brussels, the Common Market announced Thursday it will decide next week whether member nations will attend the Washington talks on an individual basis or under Common Market auspices. Four of the nine market members were not invited—Belgium, Luxembourg, Ireland and Denmark.

In Worcester, Mass., Sen. Edward M. Kennedy criticized the exclusion of the four.

Deputy Presidential Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the administration wanted to keep the conference small and hoped the larger Common Market nations could act for all nine.

The President also released letters to 13 oil-producing nations asking them to join the consumers in a later meeting in Washington.

Kissinger, before flying off on another crisis Middle East mission, echoed the President in warning at a Washington news conference on energy that "no single country can solve the problem by itself."

"It is essential for all concerned to understand we are truly interdependent," he said, adding "we believe unrestricted bilateral competition would be ruinous."

Kissinger emphasized that the United States has no "selfish" reasons for promoting a worldwide solution, pointing out that America is 85 per cent self-sufficient in oil supplies and has the capability of becoming entirely self-sufficient.

The invitations to the oil-producing countries to meet with consuming nations in Washington 90 days after the

Feb. 11 meeting went to Abu Dhabi, Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar Saudi Arabia and Venezuela.

Those countries promised Wednesday after a Geneva meeting to freeze petroleum prices—already doubled since Dec. 1—for three months but there were signs of defections with Venezuela saying it might again raise the cost of its crude oil Feb. 1.

Energy chief William E. Simon, appearing with Kissinger at a news conference, cautioned the nation not to make the oil companies "a scapegoat" for the energy crisis.

But responding to charges that the Nixon administration is not getting accurate information on the fuel situation, he said a thorough audit of all petroleum firms has been ordered to verify their figures on supplies and to ensure that price increases are justified.

In other energy developments:

—In New York, Texaco Inc., said Thursday it now has more gasoline, heavy fuel oil and middle distillates (which include home heating oils and jet and diesel fuels) on hand than at this time last year. But it said the gasoline stocks represent less than one week's supply. Texaco said it faces reducing refining operations in the United States as a result of the Arab embargo.

—The Kuwait Foreign Ministry warned Thursday that a ring of explosives, planted around its oil fields, will be triggered if the United States attempts to send in troops to seize the installations.

—French President Georges Pompidou said in Paris: "All French people must save oil to allow us to overcome the very serious difficulties threatening us in 1974."

MIDDLE EAST BOUND—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger leaves Washington on his third peace-seeking trip to the Middle East since the October War, expecting to get concrete proposals from Egypt and Israel that will lead to a separation of their forces along the Suez Canal. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Kissinger on Peace Rescue Trip

By United Press International

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew to the Middle East today with a new "sense of urgency" to try to save the faltering Israel-Egyptian troop withdrawal negotiations. Egypt indicated it would reject a reported Israeli withdrawal plan worked out by U.S. and Israeli leaders.

New artillery and mortar duels were reported along the Suez Canal front between Israeli and Egyptian troops, and Israel reported two of its soldiers killed and five wounded. Tension remained high, and the influential Cairo newspaper Al Gomhouria said Egypt cannot permit the current situation to continue indefinitely.

Syria reported that its artillery shelled Israeli troops trying to improve their positions on the Golan Heights today and said there were artillery duels and patrol clashes. Israel denied a Syrian report that 10 Israeli soldiers were killed or wounded in clashes during the night.

Kissinger arrived in Madrid today for two hours of talks with Spanish Foreign Minister Pedro Cortina before flying on to the Egyptian resort city of Aswan for talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Kissinger will consult Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir in Jerusalem and may pay visits to Jordan and Saudi Arabia. Whether he would visit Syria was not known; Syria has refused to join the Geneva peace talks.

The most authoritative statement of the Egyptian position came from Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahran and a confidante of Sadat's. He editorially rejected the reported Israeli proposals today, indicating Sadat would do the same.

The Israeli proposals—never announced officially—were discussed by Kissinger and Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan in Washington last week. They are said to include an Israeli withdrawal 20 miles from the Suez Canal, a "thinning out" of Egyptian forces on the east bank, the setting up of a U.N. buffer force and negotiations to reopen the Suez Canal to all shipping, including Israeli.

These proposals, Heikal said, are aimed at producing a partial settlement with Egypt that would "weaken Egypt's self-confidence, break the united Arab front, sow dissension between Egypt and the Soviet Union and isolate Egypt." He said Egypt is "on the alert, knows its objective and how to reach it."

Tel Aviv dispatches indicated the Israeli proposals were not final. Foreign Minister Abba Eban said on Israeli National Television Thursday that "we general ideas into a concrete withdrawal of Israeli forces to 19 miles east of the canal and the thinning out of Egyptian units on the east bank."

Editor Mohammed Hassanein Heikal said the proposals would "weaken Egypt's self-confidence, break the United Arab front, sow dissension between Egypt and the Soviet Union and isolate Egypt."

"What we expect to do is see whether we can transform pullback plan calling for the

Ulster Welfare Transition 'Smooth'

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON (George J. Habernig, director of the local Social Security Administration office.)

About 950 Ulster County residents who previously have been receiving public assistance from the Welfare Department are now getting their funds through the federal government's Social Security Office as of Jan. 1.

Unlike a similar changeover in New York City where friction and frustration led to violence at some Social Security Offices where funds were not immediately available due to misdirected or lost mail, the transition here in Ulster County has been relatively smooth.

There have been some problems, however. The Social Security Office "has been so busy" since Jan. 2, that a number of persons have been having difficulty reaching the office by phone, according to George J. Habernig, director of the local Social Security Administration office.

Like New York City, Ulster County has also experienced some loss or misdirection of checks but emergency funds have been made available in some instances, Habernig explained. Part of the problem was because persons moved and failed to submit change of address information.

Sometimes, too, the local office has experienced difficulty in getting connected with the Social Security computer in Baltimore because it is in constant use by agencies all over the state who are also making the transition.

Those transferred from the county welfare rolls to the new federal Supplemental Security Program include the aged, blind, and disabled (including drug addicts).

The relative ease of the transition between the two offices here was due mainly to good liaison and long-range planning, according to Bernhardt S. Kramer, commissioner of Social Services.

"We have been involved in the conversion for many months," Kramer explained, adding that Patricia Hannay was in charge of the changeover for his department and Herbert Sumliner served as liaison for the Social Security Administration. Evelyn Weiner, director of income maintenance for the Department of Social Services served as liaison for the county.

Habernig said that in order to handle the extra work load, which is in addition to the regular functions of the Social Security Office in Kingston, three additional full time persons had to be hired as well as two on a part time basis. He also explained that some employees in his office have been working overtime since November to accomplish the job.

Kramer praised the liaison between the two offices saying the cooperation was fortunate and at the same time explained that while the Social Security Administration is handling the fiscal end of the public assistance, his office will continue to provide the services.

The picture was somewhat different in New York City earlier this week when extra security forces patrolled 23 Social Security Offices that had been besieged by thousands of ex-welfare recipients seeking benefits under the new program.

Many of the recipients claim their payments have been lost in the mails, stolen or misdirected.

The city had issued emergency interim funds in such circumstances, but the federal program requires a Treasury Department investigation lasting several days before a new check can be issued in most cases.

Habernig said the amount of emergency aid paid out in Ulster County was limited to $100 a person.

Milton Tragedy Aftermath . . . Father Still 'Critical'

By MATT SPIRENG

MILTON
James DiMetro, 30, whose wife and two young children were consumed by a tragic fire at their Milton home early Thursday, continued his struggle for life today in a Poughkeepsie hospital.

DiMetro, who police now believe jumped from the roof of his home while in a state of shock after the fire broke out, was listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit at St. Francis Hospital suffering from extensive burns.

The lives of DiMetro's wife, Patricia, and two children, James, 7, and Carla, 4½, were snuffed out by the blaze which totally destroyed the two-story converted farm house at 450 Orchard Street.

At one point, after he apparently leaped from the roof of the house, the injured father, along with neighbors, attempted to rush back into the burning building only to be driven back by the intense heat from the raging inferno.

State police continued their investigation into the cause of the holocaust, and have not yet made a determination as to how the fire started. Investigators will be returning to the charred remains of the house in their attempts to find out how the fire began.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp issued verdicts today in the causes of death of the mother and her two children. All died of asphyxia due to inhalation of smoke and fire, the coroner said. The bodies had been charred beyond recognition by the raging fire.

Milton firemen had arrived at the scene at 1:15 a.m. Thursday to find flames shooting through the windows of the building which contained three apartments. The other tenants escaped. Meanwhile, a fire late Thursday afternoon extensively damaged a workers' residence on Mohonk Mountain House property despite the efforts of firemen from the High Falls, New Paltz and Stone Ridge departments. Luckily, none of the occupants of the six-room, two-story structure, called the "Hickory Apartments," were in the building when the blaze broke out at about 4 p.m.

High Falls Fire Chief Peter Zegel said the building was extensively involved when firemen arrived. But firemen were able to save many of the possessions of the residents of the building.

Somewhat hampered by freezing rain which fell on the scene intermittently, firemen from the three departments extinguished the fire after three rooms in the building were gutted.

About 40 firemen were at the scene for about five hours. A nearby structure was also threatened by the blaze, Zegel said, but firemen, continuing to battle the flames after darkness fell, kept it from spreading. The fire broke out in the basement of the building, firemen said, and spread to the first and second floors. The exact cause was not determined, however.

No injuries were reported.

Town of Ulster Plans Sewer Contract Hearing

By CARL GRAHAM

TOWN OF ULSTER
The Ulster Town Board will hold a public hearing in the town hall at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 17, to discuss a contract for the third and final section of the town's sewer district. The section, known as Contract Area 3C, was one of two that had to be rebid when Site-Con Construction Co. of Greenwich, Conn., walked off the job in June, 1973, saying it needed more money for the work. The area extends northward from Route 209 to Legg's Mills Road.

Collector lines in Area 3A, the holocaust, and have not yet made a determination as to how the fire started. Investigators was completed last year by Ufheil Construction Co. and is now being hooked into the town's new sewage treatment plant. Area 3B, from Chambers School to Route 209, was rebid recently. Work on collector lines there, left about 30 per cent complete by Site-Con, is expected to begin in the spring when work on Area 3A is completed.

The town has announced that it will sue Site-Con for the difference in cost between their original contracts for Area 3B and 3C and the costs of new contracts.

Town board members expressed concern at Thursday night's meeting over the increasing use of town roads by snowmobiles. "Someone is going to get hurt," Highway Superintendent Edgar Elliott told the board.

Supervisor Carmine Sabino pointed out that the town has an ordinance forbidding snowmobiles to use town roads except to cross them at right angles. Town Justice Sherwood Davis noted that violations are handled under the Conservation Law and asked town constables to meet with him for instructions on the proper ways to issue summonses for violations.

Steve Conti, chairman of the Recreation Commission, reported on the basketball program conducted during the past year at Chambers School, where an asphalt court has been built. Conti praised the work of Ed Fitzgerald in handling the program and said that about 50 boys want to get in the program in addition to the 50 already participating. Conti also said that the softball diamond at the town park will be completed early this year and that several teams have already expressed an interest in using it. The board passed a resolution approving the action of Ulster

Javits Favors Rocky

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

The Republican senator also said he favored former New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller in the 1976 presidential race.

"I believe thoroughly in rationing," he told a Rotary Club audience here. "I urge that it be brought about. I have great confidence in the American peoples' discipline and patriotism in overcoming this crisis."

Javits added that "No gasoline rationing system will stand up without the public's cooperation. I expect to have that public cooperation. That doesn't mean we will not have excesses and slippages, some black marketing, some dishonesty—but on the whole, we will hold up."

At a news conference, the state's senior senator said he has urged Rockefeller to run for the presidency in 1976 "because he is very well able to handle the job and America needs an outstandingly fine president."

"Rockefeller has every right (to the job). I've urged him to go after it and I hope he will," Javits said.

Javits was in this Hudson Valley city to speak to students at Vassar College, address the Rotary Club and tour an urban renewal site. The tour had to be cancelled because of heavy snows.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 11, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The final lifting of the Arab oil embargo, according to secret reports from the Saudi Arabian fields, won't bring the promised gush of oil. The reports have been shown to us by sources inside Aramco, the multinational, multibillion consortium which developed the Saudi fields. There are four Aramco partners — Exxon, Mobil, Standard of California and Texaco — each an oil giant in its own right. In these reports, which have been withheld from both the Saudi and U.S. governments, Aramco engineers have warned that "severe technical difficulties" have hampered production. Their best estimate is that production will be "stabilized" at no more than 7.5 million barrels a day. This is less than half the 20 million barrels that the Saudis promised if their political terms were met. GREED But the real scandal, if the engineering reports are correct, is that the production foul-up was caused by Aramco's greed.

For three decades, Aramco has been pumping oil from under the sands of the sheikdom and paying the Saudis mere alms. Not only are the fabulous, one-sided oil concessions of the past now at an end, but the company fears that its whole Saudi operation will be taken over by the government. The secret Aramco memos are full of references to "possible nationalization" and "unstable political conditions." A year ago, the memos predicted nationalization would come "well before 1980." More recent memos warn that the takeover may be only two or three years away.

Aramco, therefore, began draining every drop of oil that could be sold from its Saudi wells. The daily production was increased from 6.5 million barrels in 1972 to nine million barrels in 1973. The company had set a 9.3-million-barrel production goal by the end of the year.

EXISTING FIELDS The corporate objective, according to the secret memos, was to increase production from existing fields without spending any more money than necessary on developing new wells. The rush to get the oil out caused technical problems. As early as last June, engineers warned that production was too fast. Their secret reports tell of "huge pressure drops" and "erratic production."

The hurried production, according to the reports, created "tremendous volumes" of natural gas, which simply had to be burned off. At a steady production rate, the reports state, the gas could be compressed and reinjected into the formation. This would cost a little development money, but it would increase the pressurization and permit more oil to be pumped from existing wells.

However, the documents make clear that Aramco is not interested in preserving petroleum for the Saudi government to expropriate but only in removing as much as possible before nationalization takes place.

NO SHORTAGE There is no shortage of oil under the Saudi sands. The barren, baked desert virtually floats on a sea of petroleum. The engineering reports, indeed, are highly critical of Aramco's management for failing to conduct adequate "development drilling" and "reservoir analysis."

But plainly, the company is unwilling to invest substantial sums in developing Saudi Arabia's vast oil reserve unless the government makes the risk worthwhile.

One memo estimates that it would cost Aramco $1 billion to increase production. The money is needed for drilling new wells and building more pipelines and storage tanks. Even if this vast investment is made, according to the memo, no substantial increase in production could be expected before 1977.

The Aramco documents show that the company, meanwhile, is concentrating on draining the fields it has already developed. Only 14 of the 20 known fields are now being worked, according to the engineering reports, and substantial production is coming from only 12. Geological surveys indicate that many more fields merely await exploration and development.

SUSPICIONS AROUSED When the Saudis offered to increase production to 20 million barrels daily, they evidently didn't know about the technical difficulties that have developed. Their suspicions, apparently, were aroused. But the secret reports indicate they were kept in the dark about the seriousness of the troubles.

This is vigorously denied by an official spokesman for the oil consortium. He assured us that the company is developing Saudi Arabia's oil reserves as fast as feasible and that the technical problems haven't been serious. He specifically denied that the company's carelessness will limit future production to about 7.5 million barrels daily, without heavy investments.

We quoted some of the memos to him including one which declared the "reservoir pressures" fluctuated so greatly that the engineers estimated the daily production would be held at "no more than 7.5 million barrels."

This memo, said the spokesman, was "all wet, completely erroneous." The welfare of the West may depend, to a large extent, on who's telling the truth — the secret memos or the official spokesman.

For Saudi Arabia is the western world's oil jugular.

Hot and Cold John

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

DALLAS — The lethal side effects of Watergate are undercutting the six-month-old political marriage between John B. Connally and the Texas Republican party, further dimming Connally's presidential prospects for 1976.

Thanks largely to the Watergate scandal, Connally has been unable to lead either his personal organization or the state's conservative businessmen into the Republican party. Moreover, relations between Connally and state leaders of his new party, while cordial, are at arm's length.

Connally, his presidential possibilities declining since being passed over by President Nixon for Vice President, must have solid home-state support. But prominent Texas Republicans say privately Connally must earn such support, by either leading the state party to some 1974 victories or significantly expanding its ranks.

Unfortunately for Connally, the reason behind such demands is the same reason why he probably cannot satisfy them: the Texas Republican party is at its lowest ebb since 1964. Although President Nixon overwhelmingly carried Dallas County in 1972, for example, Nixon supporters are in short supply here today. In post-Watergate Dallas, Republican fundraising and candidate recruitment have dried up.

It no longer seems inevitable that conservative Texas Democrats will one day become Republicans. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, a moderate Democrat, is today the state's most prestigious politician. Gov. Dolph Briscoe, another moderate Democrat, is highly popular running a dull, caretaker administration. Businessmen here thank Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss, still another Texan moderate, for making his party more acceptable to them now that the Republican party is so unappealing.

Connally is thus the principal Republican asset in Texas. But Republicans grow impatient. "I heard all about Big John bringing his friends along with him," a Republican legislator told us, "but I haven't seen anybody yet." Indeed, Connally's closest political associates, though personally devoted to him, are not becoming Republicans — not after Watergate certainly. On the contrary, conservative ex-Congressman Joe Kilgore, a longtime Connally ally, has moved into the Democratic mainstream as a member of Gov. Briscoe's kitchen cabinet. Connally intimates George Christian and Larry Temple, both White House aides in LBJ days, remain Democrats.

Nor do these tory Democrats mix well with Texas Republicans. One old Connally lieutenant who attended the Republican fund-raiser in Dallas Dec. 13 honoring Connally confesses he felt out of place. When his wife told him, "These aren't our kind of people," he replied this was probably his last Republican function. Such tory Democrats were displeased that night by Connally's fulsome praise of Mr. Nixon and, more galling, Republican Sen. John Tower.

Connally's relations with the Texas Republican apparatus are brittle. Although the state party schedules Connally's out-of-state appearances, Republican executive director Brad O'Leary has failed to get the absolute control over Connally's schedule that the California Republican party has over Gov. Ronald Reagan's (though Texas Republicans are certainly not offering Connally authority over them to match Reagan's).

All such quibbling would cease if Connally could engineer Republican victories here in 1974. But when Connally emissaries discreetly asked his old political lieutenants whether they would back Republican national chairman George Bush (who has since bowed out) against Briscoe for governor, they received this reply: "We will back John Connally any time for any office under any party label, but we support Briscoe for governor against any Republican." Their attitude might be shaped by the feeling that chances for Connally winning the Republican presidential nomination, once considered inevitable here, are now remote. Intimates say Connally himself considers this pessimism exaggerated but is not unhappy being an underdog for now.

Some politicians who know Connally well feel he is committed to a serious bid for President in 1976. Those closest to him, however, report he blows hot and cold. When Republican audiences greet him with enthusiasm, he is ready to run; when the Senate Watergate committee tries (unsuccessfully, so far) to implicate him in the milk-fund scandal, he grumbles that politics just isn't worth the ordeal these days. In the meantime, he does nothing about building an embryonic campaign staff.

For all of these difficulties, Connally is still unsurpassed as a platform spellbinder and backroom persuader. He will need those talents, considering his wobbly political base here.

Some Fertile Minds and Futility

One must beware of those with brilliant minds. They are superbly inventive, dangerous people. Alexander King knew an Austrian hermit who worked in a cabin on a snowy mountain for years on an invention. When it was completed, Alex took one look and realized that the boob had reinvented the typewriter.

A boy who grew up with me, Al Porter, invented perpetual motion. It involved two steel balls on a clock. It didn't work, and Al didn't either. But then, he had a brother who kept mamma's gopher in a jar in the cellar. The point is that all of these people have extraordinary mentalities.

My father was a secret inventor. He invented things like big rubber cups on airplane wheels which, when lowered, would catch the wind and start the wheels spinning before they hit the friction of the concrete.

He also invented a way of ending disputes with my mother: "Walk out. Get loaded. Come home. Go to bed." That one worked. However, the United States Patent Office became stuffy about it and Big John died with the secret of successful marriage sealed in his lips.

The Patent Office granted number 2,761,782 to a monumental mind that devised a chewing gum which will not stick to false teeth. The guy who invented the water bed that folds into the wall is back on the street selling dirty pictures.

Patent 2,751,592 is owned by a genius who thought of little squares of plastic to cover thumb, index and middle fingers when eating fried chicken, lobster and leaky sandwiches. I — and I alone — will invent the miniature parasol that will cover the wrists and keep leaky sandwiches from running up the elbow.

A serious drinker has devised a wire mesh fitted inside the top of a glass. It keeps the impulsive imbibor from having ice cubes pop in his eye. I invented a telescoping arm for the right side of my car. On the end is a 16-pound bowling ball. It's for hot rods who pass me on the right.

There are eyeglasses with hanging pendants on both sides for ladies who enjoy pinning jewelry on them. The U.S. Army invented a hand grenade shaped like a baseball. It can also be used by pitchers who distrust certain batters.

Men, I am sorry to say, do most of the inventing. Women are better at deception: makeup, phony lashes, girdles, padded brassieres, etc. A Californian created an amazing contraption that will automatically back an automobile into a small parking space. He has a brother who will now invent a way of getting the invention and the driver into the front seat.

My brother John is working on something that will shave a man with no hands. I would like a shower which will maintain a constant temperature, meteorologists should be working on something that will induce rain only between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m.

There are handcuffs around a steering column for boys at drive-in movies. There is a swallow-proof safety pir for babies, but parents are afraid to test it. You can buy a color indicator which tells when food in the refrigerator has spoiled. Or you can wait an additional week and watch it walk out.

A farmer bought a TV set which can be hung on a wall like a painting. His wife says he starved to death looking at the blank glass. I don't believe her when she states that she had him mounted behind the tube. Claims he looks better looking out than in.

I dread dialing and getting a busy signal. So I'm working on a tape device that tells dirty jokes while you wait. Nixon is working on a phone which doesn't squeal. Sam Ervin is devising a new bible. It's called "The New Testament Y'all Come — Hear!"

Some mountaineers in West Virginia have slowed down their stills to retol for high octane white lightning. I would like to see a wire at all elevators so that the boob who presses the Up and Down buttons at the same time is electrocuted.

How about water pistols for Israel, Egypt and Syria? Or army tanks made by Toyota? And paper planes made in American classrooms? We could export exploding cigars to Castro; write a book that will read itself and throw up. We already have painless dentists — how about painless patients?

See? You smile smugly at the fertile mind of man. Let's see you invent something, like an excuse for what you should be doing instead of reading this column ...

Eastern Daylight Savings Time on the 25th day of January, 1974 and then will be publicly opened and read aloud at a meeting of said Board to be held at such time and place.

The work includes the furnishing of all labor, materials, tools, and equipment to construct the Water System Improvements.
Copies of plans and specifications may be secured at the Office of the Village of Catskill, New York, or at the Office of the Engineers, Myrick & Chevalier, 77 Troy Road, East Greenbush, New York, upon deposit of $25.00 which will be returned to bidders only.

Proposals must be submitted on the blank forms provided and in a manner designated therein. Each proposal must be accompanied by a Bid Bond or certified check in an amount equal to five per cent (5%) of the total bid. The Bid Bond or Certified Check of all but the three lowest bidders will be returned within ten days after opening of bids, while the remaining bonds or checks will be returned as soon as a contract has been executed. The Bid Bond or Certified Check of the successful bidder will be retained to pay any loss or damage to the Village in the event said successful bidder shall refuse or neglect to enter into a contract in accordance with his proposal. Acceptance of the bid will be contingent upon the fulfillment of this requirement by each bidder.
The Village of Catskill, New York, reserves the right to consider bids for a period of forty-five (45) days after their opening and the right is reserved to reject any and all bids, and to accept the bid which the Board determines is in the best interest of the Town.

Termed 'Cosmetic' By Democrats

Several Rule Changes in State Senate

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state Senate, getting off to "the fastest start in history," approved rules changes Thursday which Republicans called "a giant step forward" and Democrats termed "cosmetic."

Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson gave members of the Senate his personal assurance that the rules changes were part of an effort to open up the law-making process to the public. A number of Democrats kept their fellow lawmakers in the Senate chamber for a nearly two-hour discussion of the rules changes, which they said did not go far enough.

In particular, several Democrats focused their criticism on the deletion from the rules of the house provisions for dealing with petitions. A petition is a seldom used device by which a senator can bring a subject to the floor for debate without changes, which they said did not go far enough.

After extensive debate, Anderson finally relented and gave his personal assurance that the rules changes, outlined by Sen. William T. Conklin, deputy majority leader and chairman of the Select Committee Studying Senate Procedures, would:

- Open committee meetings to the news media.
- Make recorded committee votes available to the public.
- Make agenda for committee meetings available to members and to the press four days in advance.

—Make majority and minority statements on major legislation a part of committee reports.

After adoption of the new rules, Anderson's office issued a statement saying, "adoption of new rules, by an overwhelming majority of all of the members which guarantee an open Senate, in the face of a minimal degree of nit-picking by a handful of members, fulfills a deep commitment by the leadership to clear-cut legislative reform."

"I want to compliment every member of the body for their help in getting the 1974 session off to its fastest start in history," Anderson said.

"Through diligent committee work" 53 bills were on the Senate calendar "on the first day possible" and will be ready for discussion and possible passage next Monday, he said.

The Assembly met Wednesday for an organizational meeting, but was not scheduled to meet Thursday.

Four Women Troopers Graduating

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Four women were to graduate from the New York State Police Academy today, the first females in the academy's 57-year history to don the gray uniform of a state trooper.

The state's first woman trooper, Regina Robbins, 22, of New Woodstock, will lead her graduating class of 124. The Madison County woman was to receive a revolver awarded for compiling the highest scholastic record during training, an academy spokesman said.

Miss Robbins, a cum laude graduate of Syracuse University, will be assigned to the Fonda substation.

Four months ago, Miss Robbins and four other women were scheduled to join 129 male recruits for 17 weeks basic training at the modern $5.3 million academy. But on their scheduled swearing-in date of Sept. 6, plans hit a snag.

After Miss Robbins was sworn in, the official appointments of the other women were delayed when a male candidate, Thomas M. Button, an Albion Village policeman, contended he was the victim of sex discrimination. He said the four women scored lower than he on competitive examinations.

A place in the class was opened for Button, 21, when another recruit dropped out. The four women and Button were sworn in Sept. 13.

Shortly after training began, one of the women, Pamela R. Bowers, 23, of Bloomington, left the academy and returned to her job as a campus security policewoman.

The three women troopers will be assigned to Troop G in Loudonville.

They successfully completed 17 weeks of training at the academy. A typical day included a 6:30 a.m. reveille, a half hour of calisthenics before breakfast and eight hours of instruction in subjects ranging from criminal procedures to high-speed driving.

Man Charged With Killing Children

TAOS, N.M. (UPI) — Investigators say they are positive a 35-year-old unemployed farmworker killed three of his children and wounded a fourth but they are at a loss to explain why the children were shot.

Jerry Warren of Costilla, N.M., charged Thursday with three counts of murder and one count of aggravated assault, refuses to talk to police about the incident.

The children were shot Wednesday night as they sat in their living room playing and watching television.

"I don't think the kids knew what hit them," investigator Ernest Trujillo of the Taos County district attorney's office said.

Trujillo said Warren has refused to make a statement. The wounded boy is unable to talk to officers and the suspects' wife said she was not at home at the time.

"I'm just knocking my head against the wall trying to find out what happened," Trujillo said. "I'm going up to Costilla well, today and talk to some of the neighbors and one of the guys that worked with the suspect"

Oh, Boy! What a Pie!

Now is the time to make full use of all the apples that are available in so many varieties in markets. Nearly every variety is now in hand, ready to eat "as is" or to make into pies, breads, delicious desserts and crisp, tangy salads.

This variation on the apple pie theme is sure to delight you. The winy flavor of apples plus the tang of grapefruit and the sweet, blithe taste of mincemeat make an unbeatable combination you won't soon forget.

One medium size grapefruit

One pkg. (nine oz.) condensed mincemeat.
Pastry for 9-inch 1-crust pie
Two cups chopped apples
Two-thirds cup sugar, divided
One-half cup sifted all-purpose flour
One-third cup sugar
One-fourth cup chilled butter or margarine
Sharp cheddar cheese
Grate, one tablespoon grapefruit peel. Ream grapefruit; strain and measure juice; add enough water to make one and one-half cups. Add peel and juice — water mixture to mincemeat; cook as directed on package; cool slightly.

Meanwhile line pie pan with pastry; flute edges. Spread mincemeat over bottom of pie shell. Combine apples and one-third cup sugar. Spread over mincemeat. Combine flour and remaining one-third cup sugar. Work in butter until mixture is crumbly. Scatter over top of pie. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes. Lower heat to 375 degrees; bake 30 minutes longer. Remove from oven. Arrange thin triangles of cheese around edge of pie. Serve warm.

Hubby Passes Honesty Test; But Flunks Common Sense One

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 10 years and have two children. My life is my husband, home and family, but I know that my husband isn't as turned on sexually with me as he should be (I have to make all the advances.)

Lately, he shocked me by telling me that when we make love, he has fantasies about Sylvia — the girl he went with all thru college. He says that's the only thing that turns him on. I feel hurt knowing he has to think of another girl to get something out of making love to me.

I've never had sex with anyone except my husband and I wouldn't want to have. I feel somehow that he is being "disloyal" to me, if not in actuality, in his thoughts. I also feel if Sylvia were to become available, he would have an affair with her.

Sometimes I wish he

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

were't so honest. I am so confused, I need someone to explain this whole thing to me. Please try.

NOT SYLVIA

DEAR NOT: Almost everyone has fantasies. But it's unkind and unwise to disclose fantasies which are hurtful. Your husband may rate an "A" in honesty, but he flunks "common sense."

DEAR ABBY: Several weeks ago our daughter was married. We invited 150 guests to her wedding. After checking all the wedding gifts, we found that we did not receive a gift from one of the couples who attended the wedding.

How does one go about finding out whether a gift was given or not? We don't want to embarrass anyone.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: I can't imagine anything more tasteless than asking someone if he brought a gift or not. Just assume that you got a pretty good return on your investment, and let it go at that.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and my husband is 36. We've been married for two years and have a 3-month-old boy. When the baby was only a month old I had trouble with my nerves, so Children's Service took him from us. They still have him, and I'm still being treated for my nerves.

I hate to say this, but I'm afraid if the baby comes back it is going to interfere with our life. Every time we want to go someplace we have to worry about getting a baby sitter, and baby sitters don't come cheap.

Besides, we just bought a new mobile home, and the expense of that plus caring for the baby just don't fit our budget.

Maybe I'm not ready to settle down yet. I feel terrible telling you all this, but you said, "If you have a problem, you'll feel better if you get it off your chest," so I did. Can you help me?

FEELS BETTER
DEAR FEELS: Don't make any decisions now. When you have finished with your treatment, you may feel entirely different. God bless you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DESPERATE IN LUB-BOCK": Call the base and tell whoever answers the telephone WHY you must get in touch with him. If he is shipped out they will get the word to him that he must see a doctor immediately. You will be doing him a favor. DO NOT DELAY!

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH POST

© 1974, Emily Post Institute, Inc.
Distributed by Chicago Tribune—N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

So often the letters I receive each week come from people who are concerned and hurt because they have not been thanked for a present they have been given. Undoubtedly, forgetfulness, procrastination and laziness are responsible for many of these breaches of considerate behavior. In other cases, however, the oversight comes from not realizing what is expected in the way of thanks or even not knowing how to express appreciation so that it sounds both genuine and sincere.

Today's quiz is about this very subject and is particularly important at this time of year when all of us are involved with thank-you notes after Christmas.

1. Q. Is it necessary to send a thank-you note when you have already thanked someone in person at the time you received a Christmas present?

A. No, it is neither necessary nor customary, but for this very reason a short note written a few days later and telling how much you are enjoying the gift is certain to mean a great deal to the person receiving it.

2. Q. How soon should Christmas thank-you notes be written?

A. The sooner the better, preferably before New Year's and certainly before young people return to school.

3. Q. Supposing I have overlooked a thank-you note or just forgot the whole thing?

A. Write one immediately. You'll feel better and the person being thanked will understand and forgive the delay much more than if he never hears from you at all.

4. Q. How about thanking people over the telephone?

Does this take the place of a letter?

A. Yes, especially between family and close friends living in the same town. It would seem pretty stuffy to sit down and write your best friend a formal thank-you note when she would much prefer to receive an enthusiastic phone call right after you had opened her present.

5. Q. At what age should a child be expected to write his own thank-you notes?

A. Really just as soon as he knows how to write, and even before this, he can start learning about showing appreciation by signing his own name to a letter his mother writes for him. If writing his name is still beyond him, he can certainly draw X's and O's for hugs and kisses so that he feels that he is sharing in saying "thank you" for a welcome present.

6. Q. What do you think of printed thank-you cards?

A. Don't use them. No matter how elegant you think they look, they are the lazy man's way out and show no real appreciation at all. Your note may be just two or three lines long, but it must be personal and it must sound as if you really mean it.

Environmental Survey Being Conducted in Red Hook

RED HOOK overwhelmingly when the results of an environmental questionnaire for that area are finally tabulated.

The questionnaire was prepared by the Red Hook Conservation Advisory Council and the Red Hook Visual Environmental Committee. Questionnaires have been available for several weeks, and the results are expected to be released shortly.

Essentially, the questionnaire asks town residents to assess the area's advantages and disadvantages, and invites citizens to suggest ways that the town can be improved.

According to very early and unofficial results, one point seems clear: the people of Red Hook prefer that a rural atmosphere be maintained, and that any attempts by developers to move in with apartments, condominiums, housing projects and the like will be flatly discouraged.

Two questions on the unofficial ballot, in fact, deal specifically with that critical issue. One asks simply, "Do you hope Red Hook will retain its rural atmosphere?" and the other asks, "How should existing open spaces be developed?" A recurring answer to that latter question is that the open spaces shouldn't be developed at all.

Other questions deal with the town's historical appearance, the availability of commercial services and transportation. The visual appearance of the Red Hook and Tivoli areas also invites ratings from the public. The questionnaire carries no official weight, per se, but is seen as a valuable tool to help town and village boards, planning agencies and environmental committees plan the lifestyle for the area that its residents prefer.

Red Hook's ballot is similar in many respects to a questionnaire recently distributed, and since compiled by the Rhinebeck Environmental Conservation Commission. The results of that questionnaire left no doubt that Rhinebeck residents oppose any large-scale developments in the future. According to chairman Les Close, rural environment and open spaces were cited overwhelmingly as Rhinebeck's greatest assets. The area's greatest drawback, in turn, was the availability of so much open land, and the threat of sprawling developments that it carries.

Rhinebeck's other assets, according to the people who live there, include a low crime rate, the proximity of the Hudson River, attractive architecture and a sense of historical awareness.

It is probably those same features that drew developers to the Rhinebeck area in hordes. And if the people of both Rhinebeck and Red Hook have their way, those same developers will be asked to please look elsewhere.

Tax Exemption Available

KINGSTON occupied by all the owners of the property and must be used exclusively for residential purposes. If the owner or any of the owners or the spouse of any of the owners filed a federal New York State income tax return for the preceding calendar year, a copy of the return should be submitted with the application.

General information and filing requirements for senior citizens who may be eligible for partial tax exemption was made available this week by the Ulster County Real Property Tax Service Agency, it was today announced by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8).

Savago explained that any senior resident of Ulster County who had this partial exemption in 1973 will receive an application for renewal for 1974 by mail shortly.

The applications for tax exemption must be filed with the assessor within the town where the applicant resides by May 1. If an application does not arrive by mail in a reasonable time, the senior citizens are asked to call the assessor of his or her township.

According to Jack Reynolds, director of the Real Property Tax Service Agency, the Real Property Tax Law authorizes any county, city, town, village or school district, after a public hearing, to enact a local law, ordinance or resolution granting a 50 per cent tax exemption on real property owned by persons 65 years of age or over meeting the statutory qualification.

Each county, city, town, village or school district must act independently in its own behalf and the exemption applies only to taxes levied by or on behalf of the county, city, town, village or school district granting the exemption. For example, an exemption granted by the County would apply only to county taxes, and an exemption granted by a town would apply only to town taxes.

Application for exemption from city, town and village taxes should be filed with the city, town or village assessor. Application for exemption from county or school district taxes should be filed with the city or town assessor who prepares the assessment roll used in levying county or school taxes.

The application must be filed in the assessor's office on or before the appropriate taxable status date. In towns preparing their assessment roll in accordance with the schedule provided in the Real Property Tax Law, the taxable status date is May 1. In villages and cities the taxable status dates vary, and the appropriate assessor should be consulted for the correct date.

The deed, mortgage or other instrument of title should be examined to ascertain the name of the owner or owners. If the property is owned by more than one person, all of the owners must qualify for the exemption.

Each of the owners of the property must be 65 years of age or over or if the owners are husband and wife, one spouse must be 65 years of age or over and must furnish satisfactory proof of such age. Once proof of age has been submitted, it will not have to be submitted in future years unless specifically requested.

Description of property should conform to description on the latest assessment roll. A local assessor may be of help in furnishing such description.

In order to qualify for the partial exemption, the applicant must show that title has been vested in the owner or all of the owners for at least 60 consecutive months prior to the date of filing the application.

Proof that the applicant owns the particular property upon which the exemption is sought must be furnished by the applicant.

The property must be the "legal residence" and must be

Child Abuse Is Serious

KINGSTON "Child abuse and maltreatment is a serious problem in our community," Bernhardt S. Kramer, Ulster County Commissioner of Social Services, said today, revealing actual figures compiled by his department.

During 1973, there were abuse or maltreatment referrals on 265 children to the Ulster County Children's Division. This comprised approximately one-half of all the referrals made to the Children's Division, he said. The 1973 Child Abuse Law is directed specifically to those 265 children and others like them.

Since the law became effective Sept. 1, 1973, there have been seven children reported to the Children's Division in Ulster County who were abused or maltreated to a degree that they required hospital admission. It is known that throughout this county, the state and the country, that only a minority of abuse or maltreatment cases are ever reported or receive appropriate attention.

The public is urged to attend the public hearing on child abuse, Monday, Jan. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Legislative Chambers of the Ulster County Office Building, Kingston.

Naturalization . . . 'Joy, Elation'

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Twenty-six persons including a four-year-old Chinese child and a 74-year-old woman became United States Citizens Thursday in Ulster County Court with Justice Louis G. Bruhn presiding.

The child was Sue May Lewis, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wadford Lewis of 19 Park Drive, Woodstock. The elderly woman was Miss Theresa Hacksteiner of 1 Van Wagner Avenue, Highland, a native of Austria.

Justice Bruhn said that he feels, "no greater joy can be experienced by any judge than the joy of being able to preside over a term of Naturalization Court."

"The extreme happiness and elation which I believe all of you must now be experiencing from the fulfillment of a dream you have long cherished, makes my duty to preside here, ever so much lighter," he told the new citizens.

Citing the "individual freedom and individual responsibility contained in the Bill of Rights," Justice Bruhn recalled that through the years it has attracted others from every continent and every country in the world to come to U. S. shores.

"I'm sure, he said, "that those who came before you had represented every color, every race, and every creed . . . who came not in search of government guaranteed security, but, rather, in search of personal freedom."

"Countless hands and countless peoples through the years have heard our plea to 'Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free.'"

The wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, the tempest-tossed to me. I left my lamp beside the golden door."

Justice Bruhn then recalled comedian Sam Levenson whose immigrant father came here from the old country and found three things:

● That the streets were not paved with gold.

● That most of the streets were not even paved.

● And that he had helped to pave them.

The judge told the new citizens that he felt they knew exactly what Levenson's father had in mind when he made that statement, that while we enjoy more benefits than other people, we have a duty to fulfill our obligations. And that while we have the right to express opinion in criticism or in praise of public officials, we also have the duty to study, listen and read before expressing such an opinion. And, that we have a right to use our voting privileges as intelligently as possible.

Regarding Watergate, Justice Bruhn referred to the traumatic experience surrounding it, to the forced resignation of a vice president, of another war in the Middle East, rampant inflation and the threatening energy crisis.

"We as citizens have the duty also not to panic, despair or lose faith in our great democracy because our country in the past has gone through storms much more violent and severe than those we now encounter."

Justice Bruhn said he has the "utmost faith and confidence that from the ashes of Watergate will arise a Phoenix who will restore honesty, morality, credibility and integrity to politics and who will restore obedience to law and order and respect for the opinion of others."

New citizens included the following: Miss Sarah Rosalie Atherly of Monticello, formerly of Panama; Mrs. Esther Grodner, Liberty, formerly of Israel; Milan Rezek, Woodstock, formerly of Czechoslovakia; Richard Fu-Yuan Soong, High Woods, formerly of China; Mrs. Jean Fong Lay, Woodstock, formerly of China; Mrs. Jansje Catharina Collins, Saugerties, formerly of Netherlands; Pyung June Min, Lake Katrine, formerly of Korea; Mrs. Patricia Yvonne Irwin, Kerhonkson, formerly of Great Britain.

Paltz Move Saving Gasoline

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ
With measures already adopted to conserve energy paying off, the State University College at New Paltz has ordered a modification in graduate registration which will save an estimated 6,000 gallons of gasoline.

In addition to the new registration procedure, Daylight Saving Time (DST) is expected to be a further boon to the college.

About half the graduate students at New Paltz will be able to complete their registration for the spring term at the college by mail, rather than driving to the college for in-person registration.

The announcement of the registration change was issued this week by Dr. Angelos V. Patsis, acting dean of graduate studies, who said the students affected would be those who filed course request forms by mid-December and whose registration the college has been able to complete.

More than 90 per cent of the 3,000 graduate students at New Paltz are part-time, commuting to the campus from as far away as White Plains. About 1,500 of these students will be saved a round trip to the New Paltz campus the college "conservatively" estimates at 40 to 50 miles, or four gallons of gas. The savings is thus about 6,000 gallons of gasoline total.

The college has now received enough electric and oil bills for comparison figures, and the figures show a dramatic drop in both these energy areas since the college instituted its broad and detailed energy conservation program.

The electric bill the college has to work with is from Nov. 15 to Dec. 14. Plant Superintendent Jack J. Hill noted that the college's energy conservation plan had only been in effect for about two weeks of that period. However, the electrical savings were still significant. Last year, for the same billing period, the college used about 1.7 million kilowatts of electricity with a peak demand of 3,304 kilowatts. This year, the total was cut to about 1.5 million kilowatts, and the peak demand slashed to 2,968 kilowatts.

As good as this savings was, Hill said the college was hoping for an even greater comparative drop over last year for the Dec. 15 to Jan. 14 billing period.

The electrical savings have been made mainly by turning off an enormous number of lights at the college, in many cases dismantling the fixtures to make them inoperative. Ornamental lighting is also out, with only the lighting necessary for safety being left on the campus at night.

The college, in the same program, also set out to save on the No. 6 oil it uses to heat the campus, with cuts in the temperature of everything the college heated, and Hill conducting experiments to see if he could make the heating plant more efficient.

According to the oil used in the month of December, the measures worked. The college saved nearly 50,000 gallons of fuel oil over the same period in the last year. A total of 236,935 gallons were used last year, and only 187,672 this year, a savings of better than 20 per cent. Hill said the college checked to see if there was much difference in the degree days in the two months, and found December 1972 and 1973 to be about equally cold.

"In this area we're really making some progress," said Hill.

What DST is going to do to the college operation is not certain, but Hill seems to think it might help.

One one hand, the classrooms are going to have to be heated an hour earlier in the day, in the winter at least in darkness and without the benefit of solar heat. However, Hill noted that the heat would be turned off an hour earlier during the day, and he expected savings to be made in electricity.

Hill expected DST to reduce the college's peak electrical demand figure, an important figure in the billing of a large institution such as the college. He said before DST the peak demand came at around 4:30 or 5 p.m., when the outside lights came on while the college was still in operation. With DST, he said the college's main activities should be ended by the time the outside lights came on, lowering the peak demand figure and saving the college some money.

Having DST could help the college security force, according to Director of College Security Edward Shannon.

Though students will probably be beginning their 8 a.m. classes in darkness, Shannon said the college's security problems were not in the morning, but rather in the evening darkness. He felt the extra hour of light at the end of the day could help the security force, and that so far no changes had been made in the college's security operation because of DST.

Whether those dark 8 a.m. classes are going to be very well attended by New Paltz students is something the students themselves will be answering when they resume classes next Thursday.

Graduate registration is being held Monday, with registration for undergraduates Tuesday and Wednesday.

PRIME TARGETS — If aerial warfare is a big factor in Super Bowl VIII at Rice Stadium in Houston, Texas on Sunday, two of the prime targets for the big bombs will probably be Paul Warfield (L) of the Miami Dolphins, and John Gilliam (R) of the Minnesota Vikings. Both shown in action this season. Warfield suffered a hamstring pull Wednesday, however, and could be out of the classic. (UPI)

Dolphins Without Warfield Like Bacon Without Eggs

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins without Paul Warfield are like bread without butter or bacon without eggs. "He's their big play man," Minnesota Vikings' coach Bud Grant said Thursday. "It would make a big difference if he wasn't in there."

With Super Bowl VIII less than two days away, the Miami Dolphins today face the unhappy prospect of going into their biggest game of the season without Warfield.

The gifted wide receiver suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg Wednesday and the Dolphins wouldn't really speculate on his chances of playing Sunday.

Coach Don Shula, who has been tossing quips all week while Grant has been doing the complaining, let a bit of irritation show in his voice for the first time this week when newsmen pressed him on the chances that Warfield would be ready.

"I'm not holding anything back," he snapped. "I wish I could tell you more. But it's a wait and see situation."

Warfield could do nothing more Thursday than walk around the Houston Oilers' practice field in a sweatshirt as the rest of the players took part in the drill. Shula said it was unlikely he would do any running before the pre-game drills Sunday when a decision will be made on whether he can go.

Since he was walking without a bad limp, the chances are that Warfield will try to play. After all, the Dolphins have two players in uniform (Bob Kuechenberg and Jim Mandich) who have casts on their arms and steel pins in them and three more (Nick Buoniconti, Jake Scott and Tim Foley) who have steel pins or screws in their hand or shoulder.

"Our big worry is a lightning storm," Scott quips.

But the key question is how long Warfield can go if he does try to play and how effective he will be.

The Dolphins don't pass that much (Warfield has caught only 29 passes although 11 have been for touchdowns) but the coverage Warfield gets helps to open things up for the running game.

Grant said, "Miami doesn't usually have too many third-and-long plays so his absence might not hurt them as much as it would another team but he's obviously a key player."

The man who'll replace Warfield if he can't start is Howard Twilley, who started last year's Super Bowl but was injured during the exhibition difference," he said. "I'm just Cleveland. He got it in a regular season game and was able to play the following week. But that was so long ago, he says it's difficult for him to compare."

There was a definite twinge. For a pass receiver, any problem with your legs is a worrisome. But I'm hopeful. There's some soreness in the Warfield. "It doesn't make any when he was a rookie at area but it's not severely sore."

HIS NEW BOSS — Dick Williams answers questions at a press conference in Palm Beach Shores, Fla., where he signed a contract to work as administrative assistant to financier John D. MacArthur (L). Williams will sit out the baseball season in his newly created position rather than return as the Oakland A's manager. (UPI)

Fearless Forecaster: Miami

By BEN THOMAS
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — As Super Bowl Sunday draws nearer and the Fearless Football Forecaster is called upon for the final time this season to make his peerless prognostication, one recalls the words of Norm Van Brocklin.

The Dutchman, first head coach of the Minnesota Vikings, once said about Francis Asbury Tarkenton:

"He will win games he should lose. And he'll lose games he should win. But he'll never win games he should win."

If Van Brocklin's assessment is correct, then Tarkenton and the Minnesota Vikings should emerge victorious over the Miami Dolphins on Sunday in Super Bowl VIII ... because this is a game that everybody says the Vikings will lose.

That is everybody but Bud Grant and the Vikings.

"I don't feel I'm a loser," says Tarkenton, but he keeps telling everyone that no matter what he does against the Dolphins, nothing will change Monday.

Before disclosing whether the Fearless Forecaster will go along with the multitude, or the minority, let's report that this corner called both the American Conference and National games correctly. That lifted the seasonal showing to 133 correct, 48 incorrect, plus 7 ties for .735 percentage.

Disregarding Van Brocklin's commentary on Tarkenton, there are a couple of other reasons why Minnesota could be picked as the winner, such as sentiment for the underdog, and the theory that on any Sunday any team can beat any other.

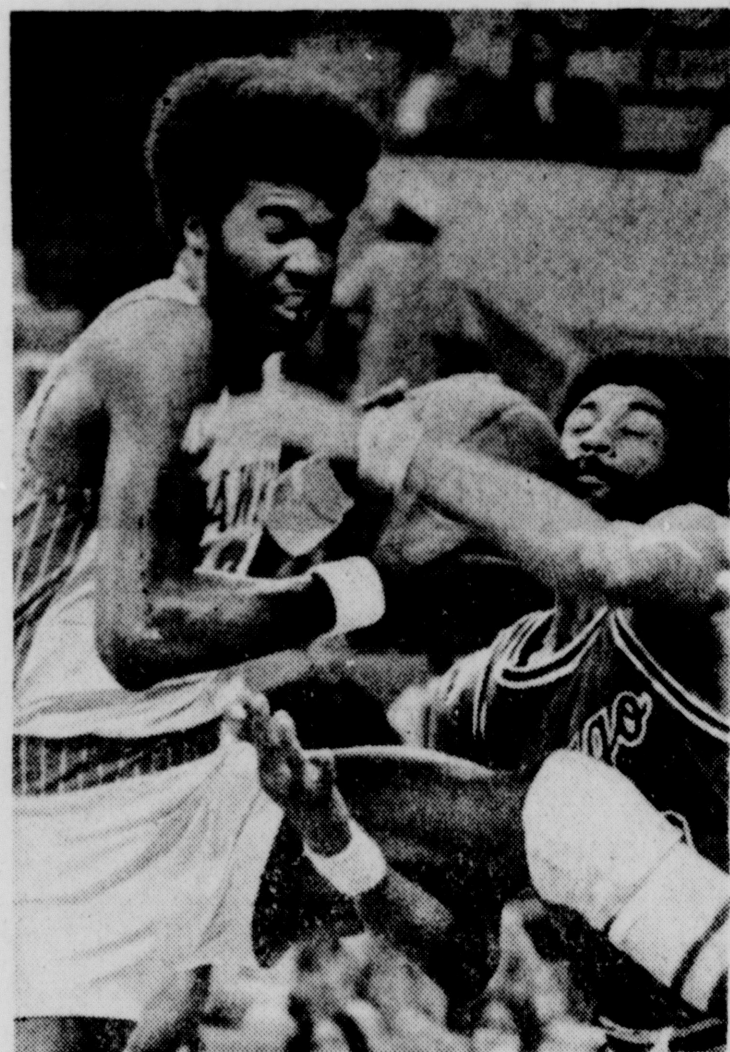

But sentiment rarely wins ball games and the theory holds equally true for the Dolphins.

Miami just has too much going for it. The Dolphins are probably as perfect a football team as can be found. They just don't make mistakes, when it counts.

As Grant said: "You look at most of their games and they look undefensible, unstoppable."

You can expect the Dolphins to run, run, run ... and then run some more. And with Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris and Jim Kick — and even Bob Griese, the Dolphins will grind out the yardage, gobble up time, put everybody to sleep and it will wind up ... DOLPHINS 20, VIKINGS 10.

Paultz Answers Critics

ALL SNARLED UP — Chicago's Clifford Ray (R) and Atlanta's Dwight Jones get all wrapped up in a battle for possession in first half play between Bulls and Hawks in Atlanta, Ga., Thursday night. (UPI)

Top Operator for Nets

By United Press International
For most of his first three ABA seasons with the New York Nets, Billy Paultz had to endure considerable criticism. He's too heavy, they said, too slow, can't jump well enough.

This season, however, Paultz, fifth in the league in blocked shots, eighth in rebounding and 17th in scoring, has been a key force in New York's success and likely will be named to the ABA All-Star team behind Artis Gilmore.

Against San Antonio last night, he was very much part of the Nets' strength as they romped over San Antonio, 105-93, and stretched their Eastern Division lead to a game over Kentucky and 1 over Carolina.

Paultz paced New York with 19 points while holding rookie Sven Nater to 11. Again the Nets showed a balanced attack with Julius Erving, Larry Kenon and John Roche all notching 18 points. The Nets hit 57 per cent from the field to 45 per cent for the Spurs and outrebounded San Antonio, 45-31.

Guards James Silas with 22 points and Bird Averitt with 16 led the Spurs, who had trouble penetrating the pivot against Paultz all night.

In other ABA action Kentucky edged Carolina, 101-98, and San Diego clipped Indiana, 109-107.

Two clutch baskets and a free throw by Louie Dampier in the last minute of play gave Kentucky its slim victory over Carolina. With the score tied, 96-96, Dampier hit one basket with 46 seconds remaining and added another and a free throw after Carolina's Jim Chones missed an 18-foot jumper. Chones then got a basket on a stuff shot to move the Cougars to within three points, but a three-point attempt by Mack Calvin missed giving Kentucky the victory.

Dampier scored 26 points and tied Dan Issel for Kentucky scoring honors. Center Artis Gilmore added 14. Chones posted a career high 27 points to lead Carolina in scoring while Calvin tallied 21.

Eight San Diego players, led by rookie Caldwell Jones' 17 points, hit double figures to hand Indiana its first loss in the last six games. George McGinnis scored 26 points to lead Indiana. Mel Daniels garnered 23.

In the NBA, the Chicago Bulls manhandled the Atlanta Hawks, 116-104, but still trail the Bucks in the Midwest Division by three games. The Golden State Super Sonics, 125-89.

Coach Dick Motta was still hopeful his Bulls would make it to the top. "If Milwaukee stumbles and drops their hat, we'll be there to pick it up," said.

Motta was happy with the way the Bulls played, especially center Cliff Ray, but the fiery coach would be happier if the city of Chicago was located somewhere else on the map. The Bulls' 31-15 record is the third best in the NBA, next to Boston and Milwaukee.

"It's unfortunate we're playing in the wrong division," moaned Motta. "But this is the fourth year it's been that way."

Rick Barry fired 21 points and Gazzie Russell added 20 to lead hot-shooting Golden State over Seattle.

Bryant Wants Paul at Best

HOUSTON (UPI) — Minnesota cornerback Bobby Bryant hopes Paul Warfield, Miami's dangerous wide receiver, plays at his peak in Sunday's Super Bowl.

"I would like to beat them at their best," Bryant said. "I don't want them to say we were lucky if we beat them."

Warfield pulled a hamstring muscle in practice but says he will play. Bryant has no doubt of it. And he senses the matchup could ruin the day for Bobby Bryant and Minnesota.

"I definitely feel the pressure," Bryant said in his crisp, native South Carolina drawl. "If he catches a touchdown pass against me, or two, three or four, then I can directly be blamed as the cause of losing the game."

But Bryant is confident of his own abilities and quietly proud of his record against Warfield. "I've done well against him," he said. "He hasn't caught a touchdown pass against me. The best one was about 30 yards. And I've intercepted four or five against him."

Bryant said even the loss of Warfield really won't hurt the Dolphins because they have quality receivers in Howard Twilley and Marlin Briscoe. So there is no chance to relax. And he firmly believes Warfield will play.

"It (the injury) won't affect me in any way," Bryant said. "It will not take away from my responsibility. I cannot relax. Any receiver will beat you if you relax."

Because of the storm, all interscholastic varsity athletic contests scheduled for tonight have been canceled. New dates have not been announced.

The storm wiped out the entire UCAL and DCSL basketball slates in addition to wrestling in both leagues. In the only weekend action, still on the schedule, Ulster County Community College plays basketball at Nassau Saturday night.

World Airways Chairman Interested in Buying A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — If sports interests, which include Charlie Finley is serious about wanting to sell his World Champion Oakland A's he might have a built-in buyer in Ed Daly, his friend and chairman of the board of World Airways.

Daly, who once was interested in buying the Seattle Pilots and later withdrew when he became aware of the club's financial problems, confirmed Thursday that if Finley is interested in selling the A's he would be interested in talking to him about it.

"I haven't talked with Charlie about the club since returning home from a long trip abroad," Daly said, "but if Charlie is serious about selling the club I'd be interested."

A Chicago newspaper reported two days ago that Finley, who suffered a heart attack last summer, has been ordered by doctors to divest himself of his manager."

Williams Switches To Business World

By JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — With the stroke of a pen, self-exiled Oakland A's Manager Dick Williams has switched from baseball's major leagues to the leagues of business.

Williams inked an agreement Thursday to be administrative assistant to Florida billionaire John D. MacArthur.

MacArthur said he hoped the pact would be permanent but Williams talked more like it was a stop-gap measure.

He's waiting either for his attorneys to overturn a court injunction preventing him from managing another major league team or for expiration of the final two years of a contract to boss the Athletics.

Although terms weren't announced, Williams apparently eliminated any financial need to give in to Oakland owner Charles O. Finley and return to the Athletics, winners of the last two World Series under Williams.

MacArthur conceded that Williams' services were "expensive" and Williams, smiling, said, "I appreciate the kindness of my neighbor, Mr. MacArthur."

Williams is a resident of Riviera Beach, near the Colonnades Hotel which MacArthur owns and uses as headquarters for his financial empire.

Williams refused to criticize the stand Finley made that cost him the managing job of the happy. I will be traveling on New York Yankees this summer. Finley demanded compensation and when the two clubs couldn't agree, former duties would be "to do what American League president Joe Cronin stepped in and quashed Williams' transfer plans."

"He's (Finley) a business man," explained Williams. "We still speak on friendly terms. I don't believe in ripping anybody."

Williams admitted he was going to miss baseball but also talked happily about having time to spend with his wife, Norma, and their three children.

"I'll be able to see my son, Rick, graduate from high school this summer," said Williams.

Asked whether he'd retain Williams just for winter months if Williams got a chance to manage again, MacArthur said, "it's subject to negotiation."

Williams doesn't plan to completely ignore baseball this year. He said he already told the management of Palm Beach's Class A Florida State League team that he was available to throw out the first ball of the season.

The Ski Reports

Someone once said that ski conditions reports are the most hotly debated sports trivia in the country. Among skiers, this is perhaps true.

The "whaddya mean—good!" reaction to ski reports in New England prompted the New England Ski Areas Council, based at Woodstock, Vt., to authorize an independent survey and report to pinpoint the problem more specifically. Entitled "Ski Attitudes Towards Snow Conditions Reporting," the report contains some revealing statistics.

Interestingly, there is a wide discrepancy between what a skier thinks of the ski reports of the specific ski area he is skiing at and what she or he thinks of the reports given out by "most ski areas." Skiers being interviewed in lift lines were quoted that area's latest ski report and asked if they agreed with its accuracy. Incredibly, 67.7 per cent felt it was accurate, 3.4 per cent understated, and only 28.9 per cent of the respondents felt the report was overstated.

However, the response was practically the opposite for the question asking skiers what they felt about the reports of "most ski areas." Among these skiers, 62.5 per cent thought the reports overstated, 6 per cent, understated, and 30.6 per cent accurate.

We asked a widely-travelled Kingston skier for his comments on the New England report. During the 1972-73 season, he said, he found the reports to be reasonably accurate and "exaggerations of conditions only slight."

"Last week, after a check of reports (when snow was meagre everywhere), I selected Brodie Mt. in Massachusetts," he said. "This area has always been among the most accurate in my experience and this time they reported conditions of (good upper, good to excellent lower) with about a foot of base and a few inches of man-made snow on top. This was the best of all nearby areas."

"What Brodie actually had was limited conditions — only two of the mountain's many trails were open with a rating I would consider fair to good," he added. "In addition, the summit was closed, only one major lift and beginner lift were operational."

In spite of a Sunday crowd that was perhaps 30 per cent of its normal size, the combination of only two trails and one lift produced the usual congestion.

"As a gesture," our informant added, "Brodie did eventually wheel out a sno-cat with a rope to tow skiers uphill in groups of 30 or so to help out at peak times, but this was all."

"The major fault of the area was its failure to include 'limited' in its snow report. I can remember a similar situation at Bromley (Vt.) last year where the management responded to limited conditions by knocking two dollars off the price of a ticket for the day."

Further pursuing the numbers game, the New England survey cross-tabulated skiers' abilities with their ratings of the reports at the specific areas they were skiing at. Skiers were asked in the survey to rank themselves as either Beginner, Novice, Intermediate, Advanced or Expert. Criteria for classification were given.

As it turns out, Novices most distrust (37.8 per cent) those reports while Experts (21.8) are the least critical—which suggests that at least some people blame their bumps on ski conditions. Conversely, Expert and Advanced skiers were the most critical of "most ski area" reports.

Any number of amusing conclusions can be conjured out of all these statistics. But the more provocative at least two more or less serious questions: (1) Do skiers have a "blind faith" in "their" area? and (2) is it in vogue to complain about ski reports?

There is no doubt that in the case of ski areas with dedicated followers, skiers are not as critical of "their" ski area as a highly transient patron might be. However, the survey did not measure how much of a factor this "loyalty" really is.

The abnormally wide discrepancies between skiers' attitudes of the ski reports of most ski areas and the report of the area where they were skiing at when questioned, leads to the conclusion that complaining is the "thing to do." Not unlike golfers who are always complaining about greens conditions.

Hoping to overcome this potential bias, NESAC is preparing a skier information and education program. The subject of "honesty" is not likely to be ignored in the program. The directors of NESAC believe that there is only a very small number of ski area operators that deliberately overstate their condition reports.

The credibility of hundreds of other ski areas suffer as the result of the indiscretions of a few. NESAC suggests that ski areas must take steps to police themselves and tell the public like it is.

Southern Comets Top Jaspers

Manhattan's shooting stars were blocked out by streaking southern comets Thursday night.

And Mercer College doesn't expect to come down to earth after an upset, 81-71 basketball victory.

"The word is getting around that we have a pretty good ball club," said Mercer Coach Joe Dan Gold after beating Manhattan's skyscrapers. "We don't worry about lack of recognition."

The unheralded team from Macon, Ga., outshone an Eastern power that has admirable credentials this year — including the championship of the Holiday Festival Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

"It has to be my biggest victory at Mercer," said Gold, whose little-known squad has won 10 of 12 games this season.

Manhattan obviously is a fine team, winning the Holiday Festival and beating Temple recently.

Memphis State, the nation's No. 19 team, and No. 20 Hawaii were also upset Thursday night. Drake ripped Memphis

The winners held every Jasper in check except Bill Campion, a 6-foot-10 brute who went wild with 28 points and 15 rebounds. But even Campion was nullified in the late going, when Mercer moved away from a 42-42 tie.

The Jaspers, described by some basketball "experts" as the kings of New York City, lost their third game in 10 starts this season.

Larry Haralson scored 30 points in Drake's stunner over

Leonard Gray hit on 13 of 14 field goal attempts, scoring 27 points, to lead Long Beach over Pacific. The 49ers romped despite the absence of starters Glen McDonald and Roscoe Pondexter, who had earlier been declared ineligible because of poor grades. The 49ers shot a sizzling 65 per cent from the floor.

Phil Talked With His Stick

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tony Esposito refuses to speak to his older brother when they're playing against each other in a hockey game, so Phil Esposito decided to do some talking with his hockey stick.

Tony didn't like what he heard.

Phil, the National Hockey League's leading scorer, walked a shot past goaltender Tony with 45 seconds left and pulled the Boston Bruins into a 2-2 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night.

"I didn't know where it was going to go," Phil said about the tying goal. "I made sure to get it high. Tony stole me three times earlier in the game."

"He never says anything to me," Phil said. "I talk to him but he won't talk back. He's not distractable. He's different from me. He's a goaltender. He never shows what he feels."

Phil, gunning for his fifth scoring crown in six years, recorded his 38th goal and helped the Bruins keep their unbeaten string at home intact with a 19-0-2 record.

In other NHL games, Buffalo defeated the New York Rangers 7-2, Montreal dumped the New York Islanders 8-3 and Philadelphia beat Minnesota 7-4.

In the World Hockey Association, Quebec swamped Los Angeles 7-1 and New England and Toronto battled to a 6-6 deadlock.

Phil admits it would be enjoyable playing with his brother instead of against him.

"Maybe if we put our money together, we could buy a franchise and play together," Phil said. "If they traded him, people would kill them (Black Hawks) and I wouldn't blame them."

Sabres 7, Rangers 2

Just before the game, someone sent the Sabres a dozen roses with a sarcastic card that read: "One dozen sweetheart roses for the pansies of the National Hockey League."

A few players got miffed and took it out on the hapless Rangers, accentuating their anger by scoring three goals in the first two minutes of the final period and romping to victory.

Canadiens 8, Islanders 3

Guy Lafleur scored two third period goals and veteran Frank Mahovlich celebrated his 36th

Flyers 7, North Stars 4

Dave Schultz, whose bullish tactics have given him the lead in penalty minutes last season and again this year, registered his second trick within the last four games for the Flyers.

Nordiques 7, Sharks 1

Rejean Houle scored three goals and assisted on two others, pacing the Nordiques to victory.

Toros 6, Whalers 6

Rich Sentes' goal at 13:54 of the third period lifted the Toros into a tie after the Whalers had surged back from a 5-0 deficit. New England's Hugh Harris contributed two goals and two assists in the final period.

Tie in Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arnie McNickle had a surprise share of the top spot in the $150,000 Phoenix Open, but he held no real illusions about winning the title.

"I just hope I do a little better than I did the last time I was in this spot," the obscure, curly-haired sophomore on the pro golf tour said Thursday after his erratic, four-under-par 67 had given him a tie for the first-round lead with rookie Mark Hayes.

The last time — and only previous occasion — the 26-year-old McNickle had been in this position was in the Southern Open last season.

"I had led for the first round — then just barely made the cut," McNickle recalled. He had an opening 67 there, blew to a 76 in the second round and finished 66th in a 69-man field.

He and Hayes, a shy, soft-spoken youngster from Oklahoma City who is playing in only his fourth tour event, had a one-stroke edge over a closely bunched field that included eight of last year's top nine money-winners.

Tied with 66s were veteran Texans Miller Barber and Fred Marti, along with Paul Purtzer, Bob Wynn and Larry Wood.

U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller, winner of last week's weather-shortened Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, was in solid contention at 69.

Billy Casper and Masters champion Tommy Aaron were at 70, and defending Phoenix Open titlist Bruce Crampton of Australia matched par 71 on the 6,709-yard Phoenix Country Club layout. Tom Weiskopf had a 72.

Lee Trevino, making his first start of the year, didn't have a birdie in firing a four-over-par 75. Trevino must improve if he is to survive the cut to the low 70 scorers after today's round.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer are not competing.

Nassau Always Tough at Home

STONE RIDGE
Ulster County Community College can tie its longest winning streak of the season at Nassau CC Saturday night — two. That's all the Senators have been able to string together in compiling a 6-6 record so far, and despite a variety of improvements in the team, it won't be easy to do again.

Regardless of record, personnel or history, Nassau is tough for visiting UCCC. The Senators have won four consecutive years from the home, handily in Stone Ridge, by the skin of their teeth in Nassau.

It was a pair of powerful

Ulster clubs that managed two victories by a combined total of three points in 1970 and 1972 at the Lions' court, but the current Senator team has not been as awesome as its predecessors.

Coach Jerry Moss cannot possibly be unaware of the dangers that await him. It was four years ago that Moss led Ulster to a harrowing 102-101 triumph at Nassau.

Just how much Ulster has improved in the second half has not really been established after two games. The Senators are obviously better now than they were at Thanksgiving, but that still didn't stop Post from nudging Ulster by a point in Waterbury, Conn., last week. Ulster rebounded the next night to whip Manhattan in Senate Gym, and maybe that game is the significant one.

Against the Panthers, Ulster put together its best effort of the season. The new faces, and the now-healthy faces, gave new dimensions to Moss' arsenal.

It was nowhere more evident than in the backcourt. Nelson Marcelle, one of the new faces and perhaps the best of the lot, got himself in early foul trouble. Instead of crumbling, the Senators got inspired performances from Lloyd Abraham, Tim Terbush and Chris Cummings.

Free of ball handling duties,

Ike Chestnut, the No. 6 scorer in the Mid Hudson Conference with a 17.3 average stayed loose for 24 points against Post and 19 against Manhattan. He also bolstered a front line led by newcomer Fletcher Abrams that battled physical Manhattan evenly off the boards.

There aren't very many crossroads left for Ulster this year. The MHC race is still open, and that could bring a bid to the regional tournament, but UCCC has got to start winning consistently to get an invitation anywhere. With six of the last eleven games on the road, the Senators have to start overcoming those home court advantages.

Beacon Major Roadblock for Maroons

By IRA FUSFELD KINGSTON
If Kingston High School is going to capture its first Dutchess County Scholastic League basketball championship this season it had better plan on beating Beacon when the teams meet tonight at 8 p. m. on the Bulldogs' floor.

The KHS Beacon affair headlines a full card of contests, weather permitting. In other DCSL games, Saugerties hosts Roosevelt, Arlington visits Poughkeepsie, and John Jay entertains Lourdes. In the Bi-Valley league it's Dover at Rhinebeck and in the Ulster County Athletic League, powerful Fallsburgh is in town to face Coleman. New Paltz hosts Red Hook, Rondout is at Pine Bush, Ellenville goes to Liberty, Marlboro is on the road at Walkkill, and Oteora is home to Highland.

Most people who've seen both Kingston and Beacon this year claim the way for the Maroons to win tonight is to do pretty much what they've been doing so far: out-rebound the other guys and play good defense. Of course Kingston, which has won three out of four and has looked better each time out, has been out-rebounding and out-defending the second division teams. This will be KHS' first crack at a top-notch foe.

"Beacon is strong," Kingston Coach Mike Rienzo said the other night. "They're also deep and that's one of the reasons I think they're stronger than Poughkeepsie (a team which beat Beacon and leads the league with a 4-0 record). I'm pretty sure we can beat Poughkeepsie. I don't know about Beacon."

The Bulldogs' attack is centered on the league's most valuable player, little back-courtman Rodney Paulin. The 5-9 guard is scoring at a 13.7 clip, but his true value is in the way he makes Beacon go.

Paulin's mates are headed by 6-3 Joe Simmons (21.7), Joe Powell (11.0), Georgie Hughes (13.9), and Tony DeGelarmo (5.7). Beacon has a 2-1 record in the league, the loss being that opening game shocker to Poughkeepsie. But the Bulldogs came around by stopping a tough Yonkers Gorton team in the Pioneer Classic, then avenging the loss to Poughkeepsie by downing the Bridge City quintet in the championship game. After those two non-league triumphs, Beacon returned to league play with a pair of easy victories.

Kingston lost to Ketcham when it shot 19 per cent from the field, but since has scored over Lourdes, John Jay, and Saugerties. The brightest side to the two most recent wins was the improved offensive showing of forwards Cory Chambers (12.5) and John Dawson (9.0), thus taking the pressure off guard Raymond Gay (19.8). Also promising has been the outside shooting of Lou Eccleston (7.2) and Dave Decker (3.7). What has been lacking is scoring from center Kim Anderson (4.2).

Tonight's game certainly will help determine whether or not Kingston is a first-rate team or just a good, middle-of-the-pack club.

Poughkeepsie forward Larry Bennerman leads the DCSL in scoring with 96 points in four games, a 24.0 average. Gay of Kingston is next with 79 points in four games, and Billy Daniels of Poughkeepsie has 70 points in four games. Simmons of Beacon, however, is second in scoring with 65 points in three games, a 21.7 mark.

KHS Ski Victory Omen for Future

PATTERSON
"I'm looking forward to a good season," says Kingston High School skiing coach Tony Badalato and if his team's first meet of the year was any indication, that prophecy will come true.

The Maroons opened the campaign earlier this week by sweeping a Tri-County League Match with Fox Lane and Carmel. Kingston scored 158.9, Fox Lane 174.8, and Carmel 263.1 on the Big Birch slopes.

"We lost only Gary Reynolds to graduation," Badalato explained, "which means that we have a solid top seven returning." That group is headed by Ken Burgess and also includes Tom Speisman, Jim Hanstein, Bob Abramsky, Randy Speisman, Don Boyce, and Trip Inglesby.

Since Tri-County League races are divided into three classes with only the "A" race counting as official, and since only seven skiers from each school can enter an "A" race, it's going to be difficult for anyone else to break into Kingston's starting lineup.

"It will be hard," agreed Badalato. "But we have some real fine people so I'm hoping that the 'B' and 'C' races will enable us to build experience for next year."

Among the top skiers outside of the seven-person nucleus are Cindy Lowe, Michaelle O'Donnell, Vince DeLuca, Vic Ronder, and Scott Winter.

In the opening meet, Burgess was medalist in a time of 38.4 for his two runs. Tom Speisman was next at 39.6, followed by Hanstein at 39.9. Abramsky was fifth, Randy Speisman sixth, and Boyce eighth.

Inglesby, a sophomore, fell on his first run, but his second time, according to Badalato, "was one of the best turned in for the day."

The Tri-County League is composed of 13 Section One teams. Last year Kingston skied in both the DUSO League and the Tri-County League, but with Fallsburgh in the UCAL and Monticello in the Orange County League, the DUSO was disbanded. The Maroons, however, will have several non-league matches with former rivals.

Next on Kingston's schedule is a January 16th race at Big Birch against Brewster.

ED CAPUTO OF UCCC Caputo, Ulster Mat Ace, In Inter-Region Tourney

Ed Caputo, an undefeated member of the Ulster County Ulster to have Caputo on the Community College wrestling Region XV wrestling team, team, has been selected to said Coach Cranfield. "He will wrestle in an all-star meet wrestle in the 126-pound class between Region XV and Region and may oppose Vince Tundo III Monday, Jan. 14, at Alfred of Alfred Tech, last year's Tech, UCCC Coach Mark national champion at that Cranfield announced today.

So far this season, Caputo, a Another national champion Saugerties High School slated to see action in the all-graduate, is 4-0 in dual com-star competition will be Willie Gatson, a 190-pounder at Nassau action. He was selected as the Community College, a member outstanding wrestler in both of the Region XV squad.

The inter-region competition and the Westchester Holiday Tournament, is the first of its kind ever held, according to Coach Cranfield.

Skylab Astronauts Ready For Extensions of Flight

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab astronauts, who think Monday night, the all-rounder all the bad weather here on crew will be setting a record earth "is the greatest thing that should stand for years to since peanut butter," are going to spend at least one more week in space setting an endurance record that should stand for years.

NASA officials plan to approve weekly extensions of the flight up to 84 days if all continues to go well for crewmen Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William P. Pogue, back at work today after a relaxing leisure day Thursday.

Each minute Carr, Gibson

armed paper hangers of the housekeeping chores when they year award" because of the highly productive schedule they've kept aboard the lab.

The award was in honor of an irritated comment Pogue made several weeks ago, when he said he had to hustle "like a one-armed paper hanger" to keep up with the ground crew's flight plan changes.

Shaffer said the crewmen appeared to enjoy having a "do-it-yourself" flight plan during their day off that allowed used most of his spare time to take their weekly watching and assembling data showers and do minor on the sun.

Sextuplets Chances 'Good'

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A 25-year-old woman gave birth to sextuplets today after a full nine months of pregnancy, and doctors gave the three boys and three girls a good chance of survival.

The weight of the babies born to Susan Rosenkowitz at Mowbray Maternity Hospital ranged from 2½ pounds to 4½ pounds. They were delivered by caesarian section.

Mrs. Rosenkowitz's husband, Colin, is a local businessman, and they have two other children, a 6-year-old daughter and a 2-year-old son.

The woman had taken one of the hormone fertility drugs which have made births of four or more babies a frequent occurrence in recent years. Sextuplets have been born to a number of women who have taken such drugs, but the largest number known to have survived to date are five of the six babies born in 1973 to Edna and Gene Stanek of Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Rosenkowitz had been confined to bed most of the time for the past two months and had been under the close observation and care of a team of specialists.

X rays indicated several weeks ago that she could expect six babies, and a muscle-relaxing drug called oriprinaline, developed in South Africa, was given her to stave off premature delivery so that the babies could continue to develop normally.

The X rays showed six well-formed babies, lying "like sardines," one source said, with 12 perfectly formed arms and legs clearly visible.

The first baby, a boy, was born at 8:02 a.m., followed half a minute later by a girl. The other four were delivered at half-minute intervals — a day a girl, a boy and finally a girl.

The hospital introduced tight security measures to protect Mrs. Rosenkowitz from intruders. For the past few weeks she has been on the top floor of the building in a room with one-way windows.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened higher today amid an encouraging government report that gasoline use in the last week of December was nearly 20 per cent less than had been forecast.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead almost a point and advances held a broad lead over declines in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Active issues on the Big Board included British Petroleum, up ¼ to 12½; Nabisco, off ¼ to 38½; McDonald Corp., up ½ to 50½; Tesoro Petroleum, up ¼ to 50½; and Monsanto, up ¾ to 49½.

Thursday, uncertainty over the Mideast situation and the 1974 economy sent stock prices lower for the fifth straight session.

The Dow managed a brief rally at midday but closed down 11.68 at 823.11. Brokers said the blue chip indicator's loss early in the session was a continuation of Wednesday's 27-point plunge.

Among the casualties of Thursday's decline were some recent high-flyers, particularly oil issues and stocks in the energy resources group.

Cancer Blood Test Kit Gets Approval of FDA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The other tests and procedures Food and Drug Administration must continue to be given (FDA) has given approval to a blood test kit which may help Samuel O. Freedman and Phil doctors detect certain types of Gold of Montreal. The FDA granted Hoffman-LaRoche, Nutt, the test, developed by two N.J., a license to sell the Canadian researchers in 1965, test kit.

The test, developed by two N.J., a license to sell the Canadian researchers in 1965, test kit.

The two researchers discovered that persons suffering from certain forms of cancer may "be useful for monitoring from some patients previously treated for cancer for signs of recurrence," an FDA bulletin said Thursday.

The FDA said the test might detect cancer in the rectum, colon, lung and pancreas, but added the test—first of its kind to be approved—was not an absolute check.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

WHISPERS: (Q.) Last summer Debbie went with Les. I go with him now. Debbie is my best friend, but sometimes she doesn't act like it. She still likes Les, and doesn't hide it. She whispers things in his ear, like "Meet me at 10."

He thinks she is kidding but I'm not sure. She says she doesn't like him and she is going steady with another boy. But I am worried. What do I do when she talks to Les like that?—Anxious in Louisiana.

(A.) Your solution is to be AWAY from Debbie when you are with Les. Arrange it that way. Also arrange to be with Debbie less.

Do not talk to Les about Debbie, either. This might help her underhanded and distasteful campaign to get him back.

OLD ENOUGH?—(Q.) How old is old enough for a girl to date in a car? Almost all of my friends are allowed to date and they are all 15. My mother won't let me date until I am 16. Do you think that is right?

I haven't done anything wrong for her not to trust me. I have been asked out many times and I don't know how to answer no. Can you help me?—Asked in Indiana.

(A.) As I have said before, it is my opinion that most girls of 15 have matured sufficiently to date. There are, however, some variables in every case. For instance, is the boy concerned sufficiently mature himself? Can he legally drive? Is he a good and safe driver?

Parents, too, must be relied upon to make good judgments. Some parents think 14 is old enough to date, some say 15, some 16. I do not usually question such judgments. But when parents try to keep their 16 or 17-year-old sons or daughters from dating I suspect they are being unwise.

When a boy asks you for a date tell him the truth—that your mother does not want you to date until you are 16.

suit. This cue bid does not indicate any specific holding; it merely forces to game.

The negative double by North made it easy for South to become declarer in spades. There was no slam anywhere else. With North as declarer the defense would grab the first two heart tricks.

Careful play was required to bring the slam home, but South was equal to the task. He won the club lead; ruffed a club with dummy's ace of trumps. Led the nine to his jack; ruffed another club with the queen; drew trumps ran the rest of the clubs and dummy's ace of diamonds and conceded the last trick.

The bidding is worthy of more comment. After North's cue bid South bid three clubs to show the long suit. North bid three diamonds and South went to three notrump. He didn't know about the spades at that time. Then, when North bid four spades South knew his partner had been heading for that spot all the time and South just bid the slam.

STRIKE ENDS — A mass walkout by Britain's trainmen has been called off. The development should alleviate giant traffic jams, such as this one, caused by the railroad shut-down. Though the strike's end is the first bright spot in

Britain's ever-darkening economic crisis, the trainmen say they'll strike again next Tuesday if the government refuses to open pay talks. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

'White House Will Negotiate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says the White House may be willing to release some of the 500 tapes and documents demanded by the Senate Watergate Committee.

In an interview, he said he received support for his proposal for compromise efforts in a telephone conversation with White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr.

"They're willing to sit down and negotiate, as I understand it," Ford said. He said the White House has given its support to the compromise proposal he made last weekend.

Committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has said he is willing to compromise on the subpoenaed tapes and documents.

Ford said he thinks the White House is willing to "release tapes and other material on a selected basis where the information falls within the jurisdiction of that committee."

On other subjects in the 40-minute interview, Ford said:

—He called for early action on measures to curb windfall profits by energy-related industries, set up an energy research program and establish a permanent energy agency.

—He believes "there are some pluses that the President will achieve, including a Middle East breakthrough, that will make him by September a very helpful campaigner" for Republicans.

—He has made no change in his announced intention not to be a 1976 presidential candidate but, when asked about the impact of continued high ratings in polls, said "We'll analyze the situation as we go along."

—He plans to follow President Nixon's example and take a commercial flight on a speaking trip to Columbus, Ohio, and Florida later this month.

—His role in supervising Nixon administration domestic activities may be defined more clearly after a meeting next week with outgoing White House aide Melvin R. Laird and top officials on the President's Domestic Council.

Ford's statement of White House willingness to negotiate with the Senate Watergate Committee on release of some of the tapes and documents it subpoenaed last month went beyond statements from presidential aides with Nixon in California.

After Ford suggested Sunday that a compromise was possible if there was "some refinement" of the committee's demand, White House aides first indictated the vice president was speaking for himself.

Later, however, deputy press Secretary Gerald L. Warren indicated that compromise was possible if the committee scaled down its demands, though some presidential aides have continued to take a hard line against any possibility of compromise.

Thursday night Warren was questioned about Ford's statement in the interview. He said, "We're in a position where we're not going to discuss hypothetical situations."

Warren explained that all the White House has before it now is the committee's subpoena.

In discussing the energy situation, Ford said he thinks it may be better for Congress to start over rather than try to rescue the energy bill that was stalemated when Congress adjourned last month.

He said he thinks "the availability of supply of gasoline" is the only thing that's going to satisfy people" and expressed the hope an end to the Middle East oil embargo will result in a cutback of some of the recent price increases.

Ford said he doesn't think there is any single 1976 Republican frontrunner. He said that, as of now, former Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and John Connally, and Gov. Ronald Reagan, are the frontrunners.

In repeating his earlier statements that he doesn't intend to run in 1976, Ford said "I think I can do a better job as vice president if I'm not a candidate. I'm not suspect. My views and efforts aren't aimed at getting delegates."

Though he said he would analyze the situation as time passes, he noted that "there's been no change in almost three months now. I still have no intention of being a candidate."

He conceded, however, that polls showing him a presidential frontrunner are "very nice to read."

Nixon was keeping in touch with Gen. Alexander M. Haig, his chief of staff, and Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler by telephone. None of his press aides would indicate when Nixon would wind up his 17-day California stay and return to Washington.

... 'Enough Is Enough'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon's key advisors say the Senate Watergate Committee has fulfilled its mandate and should go out of business next month.

They contend it is "time to take the Watergate investigation out of the public arena."

"The sooner, the better," one adds.

The Senate committee's authority expires Feb. 28, but Chairman Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., may seek an extension.

Nixon's aides argue that the committee is "no longer seeking the facts" but has become "politicized."

They say their grass roots soundings taken in the post-Christmas period show that impeachment talk is waning and the people are more concerned with the energy crisis and inflation than Watergate.

The White House may find a receptive attitude among some members of the Senate panel, who themselves are not certain whether further hearings are in order. Ervin has said he has an open mind on the subject. Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., the vice chairman, has said he is not convinced more hearings are needed.

While White House aides are unhappy with committee counsel Samuel Dash and some members of his staff, they are speaking more kindly of the staff of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski. Jaworski's judicial approach is the "appropriate forum" for Watergate to be aired, according to aides.

They stress that the President has been "fully cooperating" with Jaworski's investigation, by turning over

Administration to Decide On Controls Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon Administration probably will decide within the next few weeks whether it will ask Congress for authority to continue wage and price controls beyond April, says George T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council.

Meanwhile, one council source said there was a 50-50 chance the administration would ask to extend its controls authority.

Hearings on the future of the administration's economic controls program are scheduled to begin Jan. 31 before the Senate banking committee's subcommittee on productivity and stabilization.

Dunlop said he will appear before the committee Feb. 6 with other administration officials and should be prepared to make some recommendations at that time.

"I don't think I can duck it," he said in an interview Thursday.

There are growing indications that the energy crisis, plus the prospect of continuing high inflation in months to come, is causing the Administration to reconsider its hope of ending controls when the current legislative authority expires April 30.

One tentative deadline already has passed. President Nixon had said when he had announced the phase four controls program last summer that he hoped all controls could be lifted by the close of the 1973.

But that was before the energy crisis had fully developed and before it became clear that the high rate of inflation that started early in the year was not going to end in 1973.

Dunlop, a former Harvard economics professor, said it is still possible for the administration to end controls in April, but he acknowledged there is a question whether public opinion and congressional sentiment will permit it.

Much will depend on "how Congress will follow up where they see, the price increases we're in," he said.

Dunlop noted that while big business and big labor have publicly advocated a quick end to the current controls program neither has initiated a serious lobbying effort in Congress. But he said they may be waiting to start lobbying when Congress reconvenes.

While Dunlop agreed that the prospect of continuing high inflation may be a factor in the final decision of Congress and the administration on controls, he cautioned, "There is never any ideal time to get out of controls."

He also said there is a real question of "what we believe controls can do and what we believe they can't do."

Dunlop said he will have White House approval for whatever recommendation he makes to the subcommittee.

And he said various possibilities have been proposed, including lifting controls all together, lifting controls but maintaining stand-by authority to reimpose them, and maintaining controls over the nation's largest corporations.

He declined to state his own preference but indicated he already has drawn up some recommendations for the White House.

Old Nuclear Policy Scrapped by U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — De-creed that the best way to the new targeting policy was designed to keep it low.

The retargeting doesn't involve any great expenditures. Basically all it takes is a change in the directions fed into the computerized navigational system of the missiles.

But Schlesinger suggested that if detente failed and the Soviets started a war, they might not hit American cities but only the 1,000 minuteman missile silos scattered across the U.S. plains.

Under massive retaliation the principal option an American president had was "concentrating on their cities which carries in its wake the inevitable destruction of our own cities (by Russia's remaining missiles). That is not an option likely to be implemented," Schlesinger said.

Schlesinger said the chances of nuclear war are small, "approaching zero." He said

Secretary James R. Schlesinger has scrapped the attacking the United States was decade-old U.S. nuclear policy to threaten an instant rain of massive retaliation and nuclear bombs on Russian cities.

Schlesinger Thursday described massive retaliation as the "bashing of cities on the other side." He told newsmen, "It is our intention that this not be the only option and possibly not the principal option."

Defense officials later indicated the new targets include such points as airfields, dams, railroads and oilfields—targets distant from population centers but necessary for a nation to wage war.

A decade ago then Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara
